

To Whom It May Concern:

Having the do not call list has been a God-send, in that we don't get inundated with phone calls left and right at odd hours. I have to say that with the threat of having this new problem of companies we have accounts with being able to call us as many times as they want, is distressing to say the least. As it is, we've already had to endure this, with them calling sometimes over 2 or 3 times a day! This is unacceptable especially because I myself am a stay-at-home mom with a baby, and it is a disturbance for them to keep calling us.

Sincerely,

Natasha and Russel Polak, III
